

Eagle Vision Partner Letter

Keys to Successful Relationships

Part 2

January 2003

Dear Partner,

I pray this letter find you prospering and in good health. We now entered into a year of new beginnings in the lives of believers 2003. A life of effortless victory and success.

In our previous letter we discussed love and trust in this letter I will discuss communication, commitment, fulfillment and romance (in marriage).

Communication is defined as a giving and receiving. It is totally necessary to have success in any relationship. Even God created you & I for fellowship. And when he saw that Adam was alone He created Eve for Adam's companionship. According to Genesis 2:18 and the Lord, it is not good that the man should be alone; I will make him an help meet for him. Eve represented someone that would be proper suitable and fit for Adam. Someone he could love, cherish and communicate with on an intimate level.

Always communicate with your mate. You should know more about them than anyone else. You should know every desire and work to fulfill it. Always set aside time to converse with your mate. There is always something new to discover about them. They should be made to feel more special than any other person on the planet. (Don't be nicer to other people than you are to your own mate. Don't have more patience with others more than you have with your own mates.) Some people invest more time in other people, kids and other things. I personally like to invest time into things that have proven to be there when I needed them the most (1.) God (2.) Family (3.) Friends

Commitment is defined as bringing together. The "feeling" of love in relationships can sometimes be stronger than other times but the commitment is the glue that keeps you together in the tough times. After all Jesus committed His life for all (but that doesn't mean that He "felt" like doing it. He "chose" to do it.) of us so that we could be saved and is now seated at the right hand of the father as committed as ever. And now we can come boldly unto the throne of grace that we may obtain mercy and help in the time of need, Hebrews 4:16.

Fulfillment and Romance

Fulfillment is to carry out something promised, desired, expected or predicted. To cause to happen. So remember every vow that you promised, on your wedding day is to be carried out because covenants are not to be broken.

Emotionally your mate is to be built up according to Proverbs 16:24. Pleasant words are as a honey comb, sweet to the soul and health to the bones. We should be out giving our mates (each other in a marriage)

Physically Find out what your mates likes and adapt to it and like it. Out compliment your mate. No one should compliment them as much as you do. Notice new hair styles, new outfits, etc.

Mentally Constantly reinforce how special your mates are.

Romance Can only be defined by your mate. Each of us are made differently. According to Psalm 37:4 God will give you the desires of your heart if you delight yourself in him. In other words be willing to change to meet the desires of your spouse. Even if it means doing something special to keep the fire lite.
